“ Allison was such an incredible woman even from a young age. I remember once when I was about 6 years old we had gone to Applebee’s with my mother, Shari and Laura so of course we had to order mozzarella sticks. Unfortunately, I have always been particularly clumsy and I started choking. I couldn’t breath and I was panicking, my mom was panicking and so was Laura. Allison wasn’t though. She couldn’t have been more that 17 or 18 at the time but she kept it cool calm and collected. She simply stood up from our booth, grabbed my arm and flipped me straight upside down. Wouldn’t you know it that cheese stick dislodged itself and Allison had saved my life. I’ll never forget that. I have such gratitude for her even as an adult. Rest peacefully, Dear One. The world is darker without you in it.
