“ Dale was my brother-in-law, big brother to my husband Dennis, in some ways they were alike, two peas in a pod! One of the stories Dale told me, that I loved, was how he taught Dennis to comb his hair. Dennis, he said, never combed his hair- it was always a curly mess. Since he was two years older than Dennis it was his job to teach him how it was done, so he showed him how to wet it, part it and comb it over and crimp the front with his hands to make it show the curl, and stay down. Then Dale looked over at Dennis and said, "H--I Denny, you comb your da-- hair the very same way you did when you were five years old, you still don't comb the back of it! " Dale was a loving husband and father, and a loyal brother and friend. Nothing was ever more important to him than his Reenee and the kids and grandkids. He will be mourned, and missed by family and friends. He endured pain and an inability to do things he loved for a long time. May he rest in peace, and may God comfort those left behind.

“ So often you hear people refer to a person as "one of a kind"... well it couldn't be more true than for Dale. They really did break the mold with him. Dale was old school in so many ways yet also had the heart of a young man looking for a little excitement. He seemed to enjoy a thrill and I will miss out on atv trips to the dunes. He loved to tease me and often got the best of me.. not something many do. It was all in kindness and love and I looked forward to our bantering. What he didn't want everyone to know was his big old soft spot for his family and friends..... he didn't hide it well however and it was evident to everyone - although we let him go on believing he was "tough". Nope, a marshmallow who's whole world literally revolved around his family. It makes me sad to know there will be no more dune rides, jabbing, or hours of "geezer" gabbing at the park. You are a good egg Dale.... a guy loved by many and we will miss you. Say hi to my dad when you get a chance... he has been up there for a bit so he can show you the ropes. You two should have a lot to talk about~~ Love you and love and prayers to your family... guess at the end of the day you beat us all back to camp...
