

Irvin Lloyd Leffler

July 20, 1929 - December 25, 2017

Irvin Leffler, 88, passed away on December 25, at Chehalem Health & Rehab in Newberg, OR.

He was born on July 20, 1929 in Portland, OR.

Irvin owned and operated the Scappoose Municipal Airport and had a love for flying. He flew Fire Patrol as well as for Columbia County Vector Control for several years. After the sale of the airport, Irvin developed a passion for restoring antique Caterpillars, and belonged to the Antique Caterpillar Museum in Brooks, OR.

He is survived by his daughters, Lawayne McCann and Sally Caniparoli and their families.

The McCann family would like extend our gratitude to all the staff at Chehalem Health & Rehab for all their attentiveness and loving care they gave Irvin.

Per his wishes no services will be held however he did request that donations in his name be made to the Caterpillar Museum. www.antiquecaterpillarmuseum.org

“ Irv was a great friend and mentor. He was very generous with his time and knowledge to me. That is something I will always value. He had so many life experiences , logging, flying, traveling, repairing almost anything. I think in later years he enjoyed watching me do some of the same things, Always with a bit of suggestion on how to do things just a little better. Even in the last of his days his knowledge of logging has guided me to complete the work I am now doing.

I will never forget the time he gave me a turn by turn driving lesson on navigation home from his favorite Steam Up Tractor show....He knew each and ever turn from Salem to Newberg, history of farms, swimming holes, and where all the Girls in High school lived way back when !!!!!!!!!. It was a great day for sure. He is one of a kind and I will miss him as I am sure others will.
