Joanne McLean (Duffus) Goodfellow passed away in the afternoon of August 31, 2021, in Newberg, Oregon. Her death resulted from the return of cancer she had been fighting in recent years.

Joanne was born on January 16, 1946, to William and Margaret (Covington) Duffus, in Louisville, Kentucky. She graduated from Medfield, Massachusetts High School after spending her youth mostly in Ohio, and also England and California. She then went on to graduate from Boston University. During her time in Boston, she met Steve Goodfellow and they married in Medfield in 1967. Through the 1970s they lived in several states around the country including Washington, Indiana, Arizona, Texas, and California. During this time, they had two children, Karen and Tim. At the end of the 1970s, they settled down in Oregon, their home for the last 42 years.

Joanne lived a life committed to her family and her community, and spent her time at home while her kids were growing up. When the kids moved out of the house, she began working as office manager for Multnomah Presbyterian Church in Portland, Oregon. After several years, she and Steve became members and have continued to serve and support the church.

Throughout her life, Joanne was an avid reader, a student of history and a wizard at puzzles and trivia of all sorts. Her love of learning, love for family and generous spirit were contagious to all of those around her. Joanne was preceded in death by her parents and her brother Richard and is survived by her husband Steve, daughter Karen, son Tim and his wife Laura, and grandchildren Jesse and Sarah.
