“ Kevin, you were my first nephew. I was 3 when you were born. You were incredibly smart, very mechanical, you' were always taking your toys apart and putting them back together again. You had a happy smile. You loved those balsa wood airplanes with the rubber-band wind-up propellers. I missed you, when you moved away to live with your dad. You were loved, and I love you still. “ Kevin was one of the most kind people I knew. I met him in Millbrea California while working for a large engineering firm - I wanted a part-time second job and got a hostessing position at IHOP. Kevin was working there at that time and we became friends. While our paths parted, we reconnected a few years ago via Facebook. I miss him and my prayers are with you all. Dianna (he knew me as Lloydina all those years ago).
