

Ross Howard Jones

February 26, 1948 - January 17, 2012

Ross Howard Jones Ross Howard Jones was born the son of William and Elizabeth (Bell) Marris on Thursday, February 26, 1948 in Longview, Washington. At the age of nine Ross and his family moved to St. Paul, Oregon where he attended the local schools. He was very involved with the local sports programs in the community. Ross worked for awhile on a local farm and was a member of the FFA. In 1966 he was married to Diana Jones. They were married until her death in 2002. Ross worked for Navajo Trucking and held several other jobs for short periods of time. In 1980 he was hired to work for Waste Management until his retirement in 2004. On December 27, 2003 Ross married Pam Taylor and they made their home in Vancouver. He was a member of New Life Friends Church in Vancouver and also Oregon Ceramic Association. Ross enjoyed mechanic work, cutting wood and ceramics. He was very dedicated to helping others and truly enjoyed spending precious time with his grandchildren. On Tuesday, January 17, 2012 Ross Howard Jones died at his residence when he was sixty-three years, ten months and twenty-two days of age.
