I love and miss you every hour of every day. You're so right - I don't understand, Someday I WILL find out who took you away from us. You wouldn't leave your family like this. Looking forward to the day I can hold you in my arms again and we can fly high. I can't come now as I guess my work on earth isn't done. Love you

6 weeks tomorrow my sweet little brown eyed boy since you left us. I miss you so much, with your mischevious smile, your laughter, our texting and how you took care of me and the fun we had. Forever in my heart and the pain will never go away of losing you so soon. Why you went away I'll never understand, but one day I will know. I love you son and look forward to the day we meet again.

“ Tim you and I always remained close even after I moved to to east coast I always looked forward to catching up with you when I came into town. You came over and watches football Sunday we chatted over the phone during games you always cheered on my team even so much as to if anyone said anything to me you always jumped in a protected me sometimes I didn't need that protecting but you always were there. As kids you were the one who would have all us inthe Honda bumping to tupac going anywhere we needed you were one of the first to have a job and keep a job! I will miss you everyday but I will always remember the good times. I have so much more to share but don't have the right words.... RIP MY FRIEND

“ Tim,
Words can not express how much you will be missed, you we're a loving, kind person, always there when your family needed you. Thank you for always being there for Josh and Jess. We love you and will miss you very much. You're in God's loving arms, rest in peace and we look forward to the day when we see you again.
Love always, Jamie Paige

“ Tim has been like a third son to Dennis and me. This past three weeks it was nice that he could just walk in our door to hop into the hot tub and get a light snack. I will hold onto the little talks we had while taking our walks in the peace of the canyon trail behind the college. He was soooo incredibly gifted with an astounding memory. He was always willing to help anyone who had computer problems and on days he was feeling good he was a real asset to Dennis at the shop. We will miss him very much.

“ Tim, I know you are in gods hands with no pain, hurt, or feelings of anger. May you rest with the freedom of love from God, family, and friends. I'm glad I got to see you in Newberg the other month and say hi one more time. I wish my brother Kyle could how seen you again. We will all miss you forever. I will look for pictures from back in the day and send them to your family. Love you Tim !!!

“ Uncle Tim You were my best friend. When I was little and to last year I would spend time with you all the time. I have so many memories with you, we had so much fun together and I wish I could've seen you one last time, since I haven't seen you in so long. You took me shooting once and it was so much fun. I just wish you were back one last time so we could do some thing like that again.

“ I shared with rose how Timmy and I became friends I wish I would have gotten to say thank you though, I know we joked and you loved your packers shirt I mailed after moving to minnesota although I have to say I will cheer them on for you when they aren't playing the Vikings or the Seahawks you know Hunter would be upset! Thank you for the memories and the 20+ years of friendship, you were amazing I wish when we talked on facetime recently you would have said something I would do anything to help you like you helped me, you were always an amazing friend I miss you so much already. You'll always be in my heart and tim💛💛

“ Tim, you always told me that you loved me like your own sister, not just as your sister-in-law. It saddens me now that I never got the chance to tell you that I love you like a brother, not just as my brother-in-law. When Josh was a baby, something happened to where I took Josh to my parents house and I was sitting outside around the corner on the curb thinking about everything. Then I saw u driving down the street. My heart dropped because then, 11 years ago now, I was nervous, u had never tried to talk to me. You got out and sat next to me. You said, I don't know exactly what happened and I'm not listening to hearsay either, but I know that my little brother loves you more than anything. So please come home and work out whatever is going on. In that moment I realized that you had such a big heart and that you genuinely cared. After that, we started talking all the time and I'm so happy we did. You taught me a lot and especially Josh. I think Josh wouldn't be as smart as he is if it wasn't for you... I'll remember that week that we sat there and watched the entire season of The 100 on netflixs, when I had the flu and you took care of me and helped with kids because Tom had to work, introducing me to movies I've never seen, taking Tom and I shooting, and when I helped you Dennis at the shop. Next year would have 15 years that I've been a part of your family and I wouldn't trade it for anything. I'm sorry I wasn't there for the last 10 months and there is so much I wish I could I could do to fix that, but I know I cant and that I can only cherish the memories that I have. Goodbye my brother and friend.

“Tim, tim, tim. Where do I begin? You and I had really gotten close these last couple of years. I'll never forget the month we mangled on building my computer. The drives almost every day over to Fry's and back, trying to figure out what was wrong with it. It took us almost a full month to get that thing figured out. But most of all, just hanging out with you was the most fun. I won't forget when we couldn't figure it out, you just let me have your computer, out of the kindness of your heart. That's something you always had - a giant heart. I remember the night we figured out what was wrong and got it working. We screamed at the top of our lungs in victory. That whole experience, and everything before it will remain a special time for me, and I'll never forget it. Losing you was rough, it was like losing my big brother. But I know the pain you were going through was unfathomable. I know all that is lifted off your shoulders now, and you feel light as a feather. The thought of all your stress being relieved is a relief for myself. Love ya' bro. Till we see again.

Oh, and one more thing, when you see Grandpa up there, give him a hug and whip him in a game of cards for me.

“Oh cousin, I have so many, many memories together. Throwing apples and having grandma get mad at us for wasting them. Playing hide and seek. Fishing in papa Jim's pond. Seeing who was the fastest runner. Even as we became adults, we still kept in touch. It's hard to believe that last month, when you came to visit, was the last time I would see you. You are at peace now, and that's comforting to know. You're always in my thoughts, I love and miss you. Until we meet again, I know that grandma and my dad are keeping you in line. ;-)

“ I'll always remember when we were younger and partners in crime. When we knew we did something very bad and we knew mom was gonna have our butts when we got home so we would try to come up with cover stories to make it seem like we did nothing wrong. But that always ended up failing and she would see right through our shinnanigans, but for some reason you always ended up taking the blame. Just to not see me get punished. I see now that you've not only helped me through my hardest struggles in life, but how you helped so many other people. You always put everyone else first and yourself last. Your one of a kind bro. And I just wish you knew how many people you helped and how many people wanted to help you. With how much I want you back I also feel somewhat selfish at the same time. Knowing how much pain you were in and the struggles you were facing. I honestly don't think anyone else could've dealt with it for nearly close to how long you did. I'm just happy your in peace. My brother, my best friend. I will continue to miss you everyday for the rest of my life.
