“Sad to hear of Victor's passing. I was watching pro wrestling the other day and thought of him and wondered if he was watching as well. I roomed with him for a time, and I enjoyed walking around PDX with him conversing about wrestling and faith. RIP Vic Vic Baby!!”

“Victor and I went to school together and we were close. He would always play King Kong and we would both laugh. So sad to hear he is gone. We played amazing grace for you and all the other fallen class mates at our 30 year reunion for you all.”

“ Victor and I were good friends for 25 years; after meeting one another at a church service in Portland, OR and--even as I relocated to different parts of the USA (and even the world)--we still remained in contact with one another. Returning to PDX on a temporal basis 2 years ago; I was quite elated to finally see him again in the flesh. Though a lot of our affiliations and beliefs were quite different--even verbally sparring at times--we still were there for one another. Victor had a very big heart; along with a likeable and jovial personality and because of such he truly will be missed

“ Victor is the son of a longtime friend, Flo Leis. He occasionally came to our church with her and always had a smile and greeting. Flo, you are in our prayers as you process his passing. Please contact us at Chehalem Valley Baptist if we can help you in any way.

“ I knew Victor, not extremely well, through his friend and mine, Kevin McCann. During our brief times together we laughed, prayed and did our best to work through life’s struggles and hardships, which we all have. I am glad to here the one comment on here that says that he was restored to God this year. We all stumble and fall, Victor got back up and kept in the race until the end. This is what matters and what we should celebrate and allow to bring joy in this passing of a friend and family member.

“ I knew victor from the church as well, he was always friendly I don't remember him being mean to me once. I'm reminded of Romans 8:23, I'll see him soon.

“ I hung out with Victor alot in the 90`s at church. He brought a friend to God at that time. Vic had an exceptional personality and loved pro wrestling and telling jokes and laughed alot. When he recently got restored to the Lord last year he made a point of making sure our relationship was right and was honest about telling me some things I had done in church that had hurt his feelings and gave me the opportunity to get things right before God and learn because of his honesty and courage. Very sorry that I didn't talk to him more recently before he suddenly passed! All the things I have heard and seen below are sooo encouraging! Vic will be missed.

“ My time with Víctor was very brief, but powerful. His spirit was always for the Lord and to make people laugh. He truly just wanted to see people smile and bring forth the joy that the Lord has given him. He and I would alway spend a good while after church laughing and telling dumb puns to one another! I will miss those times, but I know he’s telling those puns to God now!

“ I got to know Victor sometime last year during our weekly small group bible discussions. He was always the one cheering us up with kinds of jokes. One that always got me bawling was his ‘Why did the chicken cross the road jokes’ and my fave was...

“Why dd the Chicken Cross the Road? As If you saw Chuck Norris coming, you wouldn’t have crossed that road too!”

Rest In Peace brother! Your faithfulness to God is worthy of imitation 🙏

“ I knew Victor from church! Victor always had kind and encouraging words every time I would see and talk with him! I would frequently get text messages from him wishing me a good day, asking how I was doing and telling me he was praying for my husband! I loved his funny little clean jokes he would tell! Victor will always have a special place in my heart and memories! I'm happy he is heaven rejoicing with Jesus and saying “Hey I got a good joke for you!”

“ Victor was a long time friend from church he was recently restored to God's kingdom this year and was always ready to tell a good joke. He was always gentle and thoughtful and kind. I will personally miss Victor's calls of encouragement and prayers for all his friend. Victor many times shared nuggets of wisdom that were helpful getting through tough times. I loved Victor's heart and will miss him. I look forward to the day I see him in his new body and filled with joy!!
